since they duplicate the identical structure and function of human hormones, the body recognizes and knows, exactly what to do with them.

his parents launched a lawsuit, which they later dropped, alleging that accutane was to blame for their son's depression.